

Chris Wood

Airport General Manager

Region of Waterloo
INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Chris Wood is the General Manager of the Region of Waterloo International Airport. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Aviation Technical Management from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University and an honours diploma in Airport Operations and Management from Georgian College. Chris is an accredited member of the International Association of Airport Executives (IAAE) and holds Board positions on the Canadian Airports Council and the Airport Management Council of Ontario. Chris has worked at the Greater Toronto Airports Authority (GTAA), in Operations, Strategic Planning, Facility Activation and Consulting Services at Toronto Pearson Airport. Through GTAA Consulting Services, Chris also conducted peer reviews for the British Airports Authority and the Dubai Department of Civil Aviation and managed the successful activation of Terminal 5 for JetBlue Airways at JFK International Airport in New York.