

Mr. Conor Anderson

Project Manager, Ontario Region

Impact Assessment Agency of Canada / Government of Canada

Conor Anderson is a Project Manager with the Impact Assessment Agency of Canada. He is managing the planning phase of impact assessment for the Waterloo Airport Runway Project proposed by the Region of Waterloo International Airport. Conor has also provided pre-planning guidance and orientation to proponents of aviation-related projects (as well as non-aviation projects). Conor is working towards the completion of a doctorate degree in environmental science at the University of Toronto; prior to his career in the federal public service, Conor worked as an international volunteer, holding various positions in the Peruvian government, both local and national.