

Mr. Trent Gervais

President & CEO

The Loomex Group

Trent Gervais is recognized Canada-wide as a professional voice in the aviation and emergency management industries.

Trent is a member of the Greater Toronto Airports Authority Executive Committee and is an appointed director on the Canadian International Association of Airport Executives Board; he is also a certified Municipal Manager Level III, an accredited Emergency Manager, and has his own aviation experience. With his career of over 31 years of experience working in emergency management and crisis communication, Trent has a unique perspective on how to better inform and educate others in these areas.

As President and CEO of The Loomex Group, Trent draws from his diverse range of management, administrative and operational leadership experiences to lead his team in aviation services, infrastructure projects, and education and compliance initiatives. Trent understands the importance of safe and reliable airports and the significance these facilities have for business development within a community.

Trent's number one belief is that having a strong knowledge and strategy in place to meet a potential disaster is the most effective means for cultivating the confidence needed to both successfully handle disasters and overcome them as well.
